

The Zirc logo is centered within a large, semi-transparent circular frame. The background of the entire page is a photograph of a modern kitchen with light-colored wooden cabinets. Inside the cabinets, numerous colorful plastic storage bins are visible, organized in rows. On a white countertop in the foreground, there is a pink plastic organizer holding several pens and pencils, a purple Zirc brand pen, a small purple bottle, and a small blue card. The Zirc logo itself consists of the word "zirc" in a lowercase, sans-serif font. The letters are colored: 'z' is pink, 'i' is blue, 'r' is green, and 'c' is orange. A grey clock face is superimposed behind the logo, with its hands pointing to approximately 10:10.

Can anyone explain why the rubber dam is rarely used by general practitioners?

"Except for economic reasons in poor countries, I can't understand why the use of rubber dam is not widespread in general practitioners' clinical activity. From my point of view, there is no reliable explanation to justify not using rubber dam, especially in endodontics."

TRAYS

Our exclusive Safe-Lok® tray cover provides an excellent method of infection control and safety that allows you to do two things that other trays do not

1. Prevents any contaminated items from falling off of the used tray during transportation from operatory to central sterilization. The contaminated items stay enclosed until you are ready for the cleaning and sterilization process.

2. Set-up your procedure trays ahead of time with all instrumentation needed. The Safe-Lok® cover securely locks to the tray not only keeping items clean, but also for safe transportation to chair side. The cover is removed once the patient is in the chair and the procedure is ready to begin.

ARE YOU IN COMPLIANCE?

OSHA:

OSHA (1910.1030(e)(2)(ii)(B):
Contaminated materials that are to be decontaminated at a site away from the work area shall be placed in a durable, leakproof, labeled or color-coded container that is closed before being removed from the work area

CDC:

Minimize handling of loose contaminated instruments during transport to the instrument processing area. Use work practice controls (e.g., carry instruments in a covered container) to minimize exposure potential.

Why use Zirc's cassettes?

A low-cost investment with a quick return! Zirc's cassettes will prolong your instrument's life and save you time without breaking the bank. Individual instrument handling takes time away from treating patients and increases overall processing time.

In a 2014 Implementation of Cassettes Case Report by Marie T Fluent, DDS; she writes on how the dental office benefited from the transition from no cassettes to using them with every procedure:

"Drs. Dale and Thomas were both grateful that they chose to implement (...) an Instrument Management System for the organization, processing, and handling of their instruments within their practice. They agreed that cassettes improved all aspects of instrument management...Initially, their opinions were varied; however, at the conclusion of the one-year anniversary, no clinical staff could imagine processing instruments in any other fashion. Cassette usage had become organized, efficient, safe, and routine."
